

La Serena Newsletter - January 2006

So, as you can see, the weather in Italy for January can be absolutely stunning! La Serena is being worked on at quite a pace. Victor Van Tour, our builder / site manager is as keen as us to finish on time, yet not by cutting any corners - he and his team are excellent. Victor has also found us good electricians, plumbers, heating engineers, window/door manufacturers and bathroom/tiling suppliers.

Builders materials on-site - yippee!!
Josie checking for any meat scraps after the builders' lunch!

And the view - WOW!!

Believe it or not, this will be a shower-room with facilities for family or disabled guests!

...and here it is taking shape - believe me now??

The new wall for the kitchen (far end) the guest lounge-dining room this end.

The new walls for Suite 2, with a sliding door into the bathroom - the silver thing here.

OK, it's not the house, but if you look closely, thousands of tiny birds at sunset (over Lake Trasimeno).

The lake, more birds and the full sunset - envious yet?!?!?

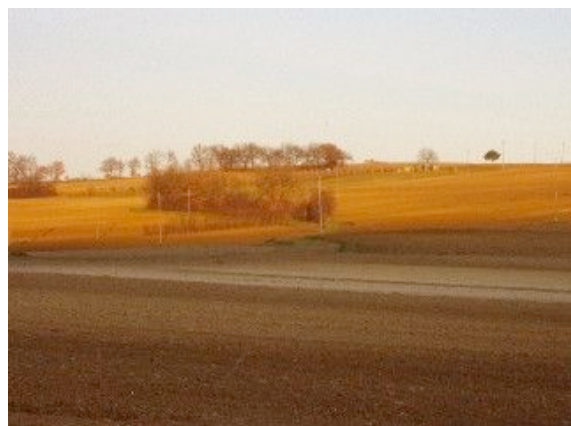

The new kitchen wall - now rough-plastered with Derek testing it out for size.

Back to the shower-room in Suite 1, also more finished off.

Vasca = Bath, Bidet you already know - so it's a bathroom in the making...

...and I couldn't resist another view for you - this time to the east of La Serena

So, this is what's been happening on La Serena in January - we are very please with the progress so far and hope to move into our apartment by the end of April.

More next month...
